

MORNING APPEAL.

Official Paper of Ormsby County.
WEDNESDAY, MARCH 12

This powder is of a fine, uniform quality, strength and whiteness. More economical than the ordinary kind, and cannot be used in combination with the multitude of cheap, short-weighted, adulterated or cheaply made powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 W. 11th Street New York. A. L.

Miss Lucy Elstner has established herself as a thorough and competent dancing teacher capable of handling the young as well as the old. All scholars under her care will receive prompt attention and will be thoroughly educated in all the fashionable dances. f10

What on Earth

Is the reason people will not, cannot, or do not see any difference in cheap nos trims put up by Cheap John houses or irresponsible parties at enormous profits, rather than take a medicine of world wide reputation and one that is giving universal satisfaction at equal price? No medicine in the world is giving such unparalleled satisfaction for purifying the blood as BEGG'S BLOOD PURIFIER & BLOOD MAKER, and every bottle that does not do its work, will cost you nothing. W. H. Chedie, Druggist

K. C. Eldridge, the agent for the Singer Sewing Machine has also secured the agency for several leading pianos including the following makes. McEwen, Antisell Newby and Evans, and several others, which he will sell on reasonable installments. For further particulars or inspection apply at his agency next to the Ormsby House.

Dissolution of Copartnership

Notice is hereby given that the partnership heretofore existing between L. I. McLain and John Furlong has this day been dissolved by mutual consent. John Furlong assumes all indebtedness of said firm of McLain & Furlong, and all accounts due said firm are to be paid to him.

McLain & Furlong.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used for children teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays the pain, cures wind colic, and is the best remedy for diarrhoea. Twenty five cents a bottle.

Cough! and Cough! and Cough! What in the world is the reason you will cough and keep coughing and still keep trying inferior medicines when BEGG'S CHERRY COUGH SYRUP will positively relieve your cough at once? This is no advertising scheme, but an actual fact, and we guarantee it. W. H. Chedie, Druggist.

How Can Parents

allow their children to cough and strain and cough and calmly say: "Oh! it's only a little cold," and keep giving them cheap and dangerous medicines, until they are down with lung fever or consumption, when they can be so easily relieved by BEGG'S CHERRY COUGH SYRUP? It has no superior and few equals. W. H. Chedie, Druggist.

WANTED—Persons owning farms, lots or merchandise for sale or exchange to Northern parties to send full description to M. S. Bens, Dayton, O.

WANTED—To rent a house of six or seven rooms. Inquire at this office.

Language is hardly strong enough to express my admiration of the merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is the best remedy for croup and whooping cough I have ever used. During the past eighteen years I have tried nearly all the prominent cough medicines on the market but say, with pleasure too, that Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best of all. THOMAS RHODES, Bakersfield, California. For sale by G. G. Thaxter.

Adelard Dupuis, has just left the office with the photograph negative of the interior of the building. As soon as the pictures are completed, they will be distributed among the housewives of this city to show how neat and tidy an office can be kept by a little effort. Our contemporaries can secure a copy at the extremely low rate of $1.00. John Dennis must give us a mortgage on his sheet to secure even a proof.

THE BOSS FAMILY.—Carson can boast of a family of men as fine in physique as the balance of this earth can produce. Although they originally hail from Genoa, Carson has been holding the largest portion of them, which allows us to claim them as Carsonites. They are all of the same father and mother, who were sturdy pioneers, with good stock and plenty of muscle and grit. Anyone who admires a family of men can be satisfied to the fullest extent of the law by having a look at the Raycraft boys en masse. They are all over six feet high, and the lowest weight is 180 pounds. Below is published their weights, including the aggregate. Jack, 210; Joe, 181; Tom, 180; Arthur, 212; Jerry, 180; Ed., 180; Dick, 185. This sums up 1,508 pounds, and the combined height is 49 feet 2 inches, which by stretching a little they can send up to 50 feet. Jerry Raycraft is said to be the strongest man in the State, and it takes a daisy to outlift the balance. The brothers all agree that Arthur and Jim will have to shake dice to decide who is the Adonis of the family, but Dick says he will take the laurels to settle the affair. If any one father and mother can beat this record in any State in the Union, and we don't bar the world, either, we should like to hear from them.

BILL NYE IN RENO.

THE HUMORIST GIVES HIS IMPRESSIONS OF THE COAST.

He is Here for his Health, and Not for Coin.
RENO, March 9, 1890.

Bill Nye reached here on the delayed train at one o'clock Sunday afternoon. The APPEAL reporter found him in the sleeper; a tall, athletic man, eating the invigorating pepper and baked beans, which forms the regular diet of the fashionable buffet on the overland route.

He was easily recognizable from the pictures of his bald crust and eye glasses, which for some time past have garnished the pages of the Examiner.

When the reporter grappled with Mr. Nye he removed his eye glasses very deliberately, and hanging a pair of old gold bowed across the front of his face, remarked:

"Just in time," and ordered another plate of beans.

He wore a sad face with a slight cast in his eye, and would be taken off-hand for a Presbyterian theologian of the old school, traveling West.

The only incumbrance Mr. Nye carried in the way of baggage was a small red grip sack, and the fragments of an opera company which constitute a portion of his entertainment.

After Mr. Nye speaks to his audience a while he quells any threatening disturbance with music, which he pays for out of his own pocket.

"Have you had a pleasant journey, Mr. Nye?"

"Never enjoyed myself half so much before. It seems as if I could hardly ever expect to again enjoy myself off a train of cars."

"Then you like traveling?"

"No, sir, I do not; not ordinary traveling. I dislike traveling so much that I postponed my bridal trip eight years after I was married, and then I sent my wife to make it, and paid half her expenses to have her write me her impressions of the trip. I travel now merely as a matter of business."

"What are your impressions of Reno and San Francisco?"

"They are real good; in fact, San Francisco is about the only city of the Union around which, or whom—as you may say—say both if you like, still lingers an atmosphere of romance and splendor and stage business, and gold and glamor such as we read of in books."

"Have you ever been there?"

"No, sir; but I have had the pleasure of meeting many of your most prominent citizens while traveling abroad, and have borrowed fame and other light articles from them."

"Then your impressions, so far, are pleasant, as far as they go?"

"Yes, indeed, as good as any I have ever had. In fact, San Francisco and Reno are, to my notion, the only cities in the United States—and you may credit me with saying it if you like—about which still lingers an atmosphere of romance and splendor and stage business and mechanical effects, and gold and glamor, such as we only read of in books. This also goes for Carson if you like."

"Do you notice any other features which strike you as attractive?"

"Yes, I can see great possibilities in it as a railroad center especially, and also as a mart. Tell me; has anybody ever thought of starting a mart there? For instance, a busy mart equipped with the ceaseless hum of industry and the other side accessories of a mart under full headway?"

The reporter assured Mr. Nye that two of each were in full blast and that a Board of Trade had been started in Reno.

"I would like to say something of your fine scenery if you will allow me the space. Your scenery is not only fine but closer together than it is along the line of the Atlantic railroads. This seems to be a good thing to have in scenery. As the Governor of Nebraska said to the Governor of Nevada: 'Paid it seems to be a long time between sceneries.'"

"Yes, I am very fond of my work and so long as I feel that I am doing good to the human race, I am willing to endure the hardships incidental to the exposures of the business. I feel in a measure that my life belongs to the people, as a friend of mine said in Larabee City just before he was hung for murder: 'You must meet a great many different people?'

"Yes, they are nearly all of them different. You notice that more in traveling as you grow older and travel more in localities where different people congregate. I also see a good many prominent people. Patti and I were thrown together in Denver. The switchman threw my car against hers quite hard."

"How do I like Nevada as a State? Very much indeed, what I have seen of it. I am told that here wealth and cultivation frequently occur in the same family and well-dressed men frequently indulge in grammatical English though far removed from the thought cavities of the East."

"Did you see any Indians on your trip?"

"Yes, a marauding band of Washoites were slightly in advance of us for a day or two, until their horses got rested and we soon lost sight of them."

"Do your lectures in San Francisco?"

"Not exactly I merely 'appear,' I advertise to lecture, but of course I don't. I give some readings and tell a true story or so, and as fast as I discover that my stories are not true, I drop 'em and tell some others. This of course costs me a great deal of money for printing, but I will sacrifice a great deal for truth. I like the music of my programme, a good deal better than I do the balance of it and I think you will if you stick it out."

"I suppose there is no doubt regarding the business success of your trip on this Coast—it is likely to prove very remunerative."

"I hope the impression has not gained any considerable headway," said Mr. Nye with a startled look, "that I have edged over toward this section of the world with a line of conduct governed in any way by mercenary motive. I hope if such an impression has affected a lodgment on this Coast, that you will endeavor through the medium of your powerful journal to dislodge it at once. I come to feast my eyes on the pleasant aspect of this beautiful golden State robed in the green garb of Spring."

"I wish to make a special request that you do not allude to financial matters at all in writing of my coming to the Pacific Coast. If Major Pond, my manager were to catch a hint of such a thing he might recall me by telegraph."

"I know how you Western people regard things of that kind, and of course, if several thousand people were to batter down the doors of my hall, forcing money into the hands of the doorkeepers as they did so, with the idea that I would approve of this sort of thing, well, I suppose I would feel it incumbent on me to accept the situation—and the receipts."

"We must do as people do when we are in their country I suppose; in fact, I come pretty near knowing that we must."

Here the train pulled out, and Mr. Nye fell back, or perhaps it would be better to say forward, on his beans.
